Hinterzarten, den 02.01.2023

The FIS Women World Cup is returning to the Hochschwarzwald (black forest)

Hinterzarten has previously already been venue for the women ski jumping world cup. In January 2012, the community was hosting the first women worldcup (individual) ever. The team competition 2017, which also took place in Hinterzarten was a novelty in the world cup. A novelty this year is the recently finalized Rothaus Hill K111. In good tradition the Adler-Ski Stadium offers elite sport again this winter season. A special highlight this year is the 100-year jubilee of the co-host, the Ski-Club Hinterzarten. A great start to the upcoming anniversary year.

Schedule / Ceremony

The weekend is starting off Friday, 27th January 2023, with the official training (2pm) and the qualification (4pm) for the individual competition the next day.

Saturday, 28th January 2023, will start at 2.30pm with the trial round, followed by the individual competition on the HS111. Afterwards, the flower ceremony will take place in the stadium.

The qualification for the individual competition on Sunday will take place that day at 1.45pm. The first round is planned to start at 3.15pm. After the competition, the flower ceremony is located in the arena.
